

Time for some REFORM!

The time period between 1800-1850 seemed a time ripe for a reevaluation of the norms that had been “established” with the start of an independent United States.

Your group will be given a topic and you should research the topic – but be careful to stay within the general time frame (as some of these topics are ongoing movements, or had similar movements abroad at other times).

Some areas to consider:

- All these movements sought to change something in society, what was the primary change for your movement?
- Who are major figures associated with the movement (photos/pictures appreciated)
- What are major dates associated with your movement (if so)?
- Were there major events or dates associated with the movement’s success?
- Were there major works or results of the movement?
- Was there a geographic focus of the movement?

Create a presentation that aims to be presented in 3-4 minutes. We will be presenting it in Ambassador Style presentations.
